MR. NOUN

RICH MR. NOUN

A stout, wealthy fellow who claims ownership of all naming words for people, places, and things.

HIS USEFUL FRIEND PRONOUN

A loyal, convenient companion who stands in place of Mr. Noun to avoid repetition.

LITTLE RAGGED ARTICLE

A poorly dressed, sad little boy who feels cheated because he only gets to control three words: a, an, and the.

TALKATIVE ADJECTIVE

A chatty character who loves to describe and add color to nouns.

BUSY DR. VERB

An energetic character who dictates all actions, being, and doing words.

DR. ADVERB

Closely associated with Dr. Verb, this character tells us how, when, or where an action happens.

PERKY PREPOSITION

A lively, inquisitive character who shows the relationship between other words.

CONVENIENT CONJUNCTION

A helpful connector character who links sentences, phrases, and other words together.

IRKSOME INTERJECTION

A tiresome, odd character who frequently interrupts the court with sudden outbursts of emotion (like "Hoo! Hoo!").
